The New Lewis High School Building, Southington, Conn.

[By the courtesy of the Southington Phoenix.]

Lewis High School.

(Concluded from last issue.)

The will of Mr. Addin Lewis read that "the remaining ten thousand dollars said society shall hold as a permanent fund for the school or schools of said Academical Institution, and the nett income of said fund shall be used for the benefit and encouragement of said Institution in paying teachers and other expenses; and said society shall annually appoint not exceeding five persons to be the Trustees of said Academical Institution, which Trustees shall be members of the Congregational and Baptist societies in said town; and no religious preference whatever shall ever be given in the admission of pupils to the privileges of said Institution."

The conditions of the will were that the town should raise the sum of $2,000 "before the said School Society of the Town of Southington shall have right to demand any part of said fifteen thousand dollars as an addition to said permanent fund."

It was not till September, 1846, that the $2,000 was raised, and a committee appointed to erect a suitable building. "It was voted, September 21st, 1846, that the name Lewis Academy be given to the Institution, in honor of its Founder." The building was opened for pupils in the fall of 1848.

With but few repairs this building was used for school purposes until 1892, when an effort was made to have a larger and more commodious building erected: but finally $3,000 was expended in making changes in and repairing the old building.

The accommodations still proving insufficient, four years later the town voted to erect a new High School building at a cost not to exceed $30,000, to be furnished with the latest and most modern equipments, heating apparatus, etc. Prof. H. W. Rice, who had successfully conducted the school for several previous years, was installed in the new building as principal, at the commencement of the winter term of 1896.—Southington Phoenix. GENEALOGICAL RECORDS.Explanations, Abbreviations, etc.

For convenience the records of the various Lewis families are divided into Books and each Book into chapters. At the head of each Book appears the name of the earliest known ancestor of that family. The List of Books is a complete index to the Books as published to this time. New Books will be added from time to time as new branches of the Lewis family are found. As soon as Books are proved parts of others they will be merged into the Books to which they belong. Each name is numbered when first printed and whenever the name is repeated this number follows in brackets. The abbreviations commonly used in genealogical work are used; as b. for born; d. died; m. married; m. (1) first wife; dau. daughter; unm. not married; v. p. see page, etc.

Oliver (456 v p 150 Vol. IV) b. Apr. 24, 1757, "at 2 o'clock A. M. being Sunday." In a memorandum of his it reads: "I began study July 31, 1775. in the 19th year of my age. I was admitted a member of Yale College Aug. 30, A. D. 1776. Was made a Free Mason at New Haven, Apr. 15, 1779; was raised to the degree of Master Mason June 3, 1779. September 13, 1780, received the degree of Bachelor of Arts at Yale College, Aetatis 23 years 5 months."

Portions of a journal he began to write Sept. 13, 1780, are in existence.

"This day was the commencement and my Class all recv'd their first Degrees; the Ceremonies were performed in a private manner in the Chapel and Library; we were called into the Library at 11 o'clock and delivered the President our Diplomas, and his money for signing and then withdrew, at 4 o'clock the Masters and Bachelors went into the Chapel and the President read a general Diploma, and delivered as well our Diplomas, the evening was very rainy and dark—there was a Ball, but I was too unwell to attend—Thursday, Sept. 14—The morning was pleasant. I arose as soon as Sol. and fetch'd up my horse and rode homeward. Mr. Law and Nott and Williams rode with me, we breakfasted at Munson's tavern mount Carmel. Law and Williams parted from Nott and me at Cheshire. Stop't at Hall's and drank, etc., then we had his company home—we arriv'd at 12 o. Dined and walk'd to Mr. Chapman's—at 3 o they left me."

He was engaged to Sarah, dau. of Rev. Mr. Chapman, who remained single and died Jany. 10, 1804. He d. of yellow fever at Savannah Oct. 12, 1784.

CHAPTER CXV.

FROM SWIFT'S BARNSTABLE FAMI-LIES.

George Lewes (1) was not one of the distinguished men of his times.
"He was an honest Goodman and got his living by his labor". He was a sincere Christian, and his constant purpose seems to have been to live in peace with all men—to avoid suits at law, to yield rather than contend with his neighbor. He was not a shrewd business man, and perhaps not so careful a manager as many. He did not hold that "the chief end of man is to gather up riches;" but to do good.
to train up his children in the way they should go, to be useful citizens—honest and industrious men. His son James was a man of more energy of character, of more business tact, and became a distinguished man. Thomas was in some respects like his brother James. The other sons, George, Edward and John, were like the father—good, honest men—quiet and respectable citizens, and their descendants to this day inherit the same good qualities.

CHAPTER LXXXIV.

FROM THE CENTURY MAGAZINE.

Among the Washington papers preserved in the national archives at Washington a little diary whose last record is of the night before Dec. 14, 1799—Washington's last day on earth—entitled "Meteorological Records, 1799," contains this brief reference to an event in which he was especially interested.

February 22. Morning Raining—Mer. at 30—Wind a little more to the northward—Afterwards very strong from the No. Wt. and turning clear and cold. The Rev. Mr. Davis and Mr. Geo. Calvert came to dinner and Miss Custis was married at Candle light to Mr. Laurence Lewis.

CHAPTER LXXXV.

FROM HARPER'S WEEKLY.

Mr. Ogden's picture, in this number (Feb. 19, 1898) of the Weekly of Washington's last birthday, illustrates an actual occurrence. On that day, February 22, 1799, Nelly Custis, Mrs. Washington's granddaughter, was married to Major Lewis, the General's nephew. The bride had lived at Mount Vernon since infancy, and was practically Washington's adopted daughter. The scene shown is in the banquet-hall at Mount Vernon when Washington proposes the health of the bride. In dress at this time French fashions—Directorie gowns—were beginning to supersede the fashions of the colonial period. It is told that Washington had in the house a new uniform, ordered for the expected French war, and that the bride ask him to wear it, but that he put on instead his old uniform of the Revolution.

Reuben Lewis was Corporal in Capt. Leonard Butterfield's Co. Col. Ebenezer Bridge's Regt. April 19, 1775, 10 days service. He was Lieut. in Continental Army.

He was a Patriot, a Philanthropist, a Christian. He served under Gen. Washington in his campaigns, was at White Plains, N. Y. and Valley Forge. He was a prayerful man, and was one of the proprietors of Groton, Mass. Academy. He sold his farm in Dracut, Mass. taking continental money for pay, which became worthless making him a poor man with a large family to support. He possessed an independent spirit. A powder horn with his initials upon it was presented by his son Reuben to the Groton Historical Society for preservation and exhibition.

JOHN LEWIS, Ireland to Virginia.

CHAPTER LXI.

FROM THWAITES "AFLOAT ON THE OHIO."

On the 10th of October from dawn until dusk, was herewaged in a gloomy forest one of the most bloody and stubborn hand-to-hand battles ever fought between Indians and whites, especially notable, too, because for the first time the rivals were about equal in number. The combatants stood behind trees, in Indian fashion, and it is hard to say who displayed the best generalship, Cornstalk or Lewis. [Gen. Andrew Lewis v p 198 Vol VIII.—Ed.]

The Point Pleasant of to-day is a dull, sleepy town of twenty-five hundred inhabitants, with that unkempt air and preponderance of negroes, so common to small Southern communities. The bottom is rolling, fringed with large hills, and on the Ohio side drops suddenly for fifty feet to a shelving beach of gravel and clay. Crooked Creek, in whose narrow, winding valley some of the severest fighting was had, empties into the Kanawha a half-mile up the stream, at the back of the town. It was painful to meet several men of intelligence, who had long been engaged in trade here, to whom the Battle of Point Pleasant was a shadowy event, whose date they could not fix, nor whose importance understand; it seemed to be little more a part of their lives, than an obscure contest between Matabeles and whites, in far-off Africa. It is time that our Western and Southern folk were awakened to an appreciation of the fact that they have a history at their doors, quite as significant in the annals of civilization as that which induces pilgrimages to Ticonderoga and Bunker Hill.

[In this history Lewises played leading roles. Let us all try to make permanent these historical occurrences by preserving in LEWISIANA the records and deeds of our Lewis forefathers. Ed.]

Notes and Clippings.

The Loss of the Maine.

To a sunny harbor-mouth
 In the garden of the south.
 Where the never ending summers breathe and bloom.
 Where warm love and light enfold
 Palmy wood and tangled woid.
 Thither sailed our seamen bold—to their doom.

There they heard the wild alarm.
 When the red death-angel's arm Shook the thunders of his wrath below the deep.
 And he swept them to their graves,
 Where the long, deep-dreaming waves
 Wash forever through the caves of sunless sleep.

And the tears of sorrow start
 From a mighty people's heart,
 For our heroes dead, and those they left forlorn:
 But from sea to rocky range.
 From the prairie to the grange.
 We are mighty to avenge, as to mourn.

In the dark we blindly grope.
 Half in fear, though half in hope.
 For the way where honor calls lies still concealed.
 On Thy people Thou has trod:
 We have bowed beneath the rod:
 May Thy purposes, O God, be revealed.
 CHARLTON M. LEWIS.

[Charlton M. Lewis, v. Chapter 3,
 Book LIV, p. 171 Vol. V.]

Among the crew of the Maine was Daniel Lewis of Albemarle, Va. A correspondent also sends the name of John D. Lewis, as one of the crew — Alfred Henry Lewis is one of the many journalists of late trying to satisfy the public demand for news. — Among volunteers of services Col. Warner Lewis of Montgomery City, Mo., the father of R. E. Lewis republican candidate for Governor at the last election (v. Notes, p. 47 Vol. VII) Col. Lewis telegraphs President McKinley: "I hereby tender my services to the military department of the Government, and ask authority to raise a regiment of volunteers in this State either of cavalry or infantry, for coast defence in the event of a war with Spain. You are referred to Senators Cockrell and Vest, who know me as a Confederate officer during our late civil war."
